

Preface

Operation of multiplication is very important in microelectronics. Each modern microprocessor has this operation within its instruction set, and advanced microprocessors have special multiplication units, that perform multiplication during

Built-in Synopsys algorithm results.

For the comparison Synopsys built-in

